

Trenching hands-on soil analysis & competent person course, February 12th.

About this event:

Take the same course that has been used to train NC OSHA compliance officers for the last 20 years! This course focuses on OSHA standards and on the safety aspects of excavation and trenching. Students are introduced to practical soil mechanics and its relationship to the stability of shored and un-shored slopes and walls of excavations. Excavation is the most dangerous of all construction operations. More workers are killed or seriously injured in and around excavations than in other phases of construction work, and that's why the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) requires a competent person to oversee all excavation and trenching jobsites.

You will:

Gain the knowledge required to be designated by you employer as a "Competent Person." during trench and excavation operations.

Topics will include:

- OSHA subpart P • Pre-evacuation procedures • trenching and shoring methods • soil classification
- equipment ventilation • entry/exit procedure • monitoring and communications

When: Friday February 12, 8:00am – 5:00pm
