General Contractor Membership Types

Regular Members are licensed general contractors who submit bids directly to owners. All contractors who submit bids to owners must join Carolinas AGC as regular members.

Provisional Members are licensed general contractors with less than two years' experience in the industry. Firms get a price break and may use the provisional designation for one year. Simply deduct $200 from the annual flat fee.

Non-Home Members are licensed general contractors who have their business headquarters in another state and who are members of AGC through that home base.

All General Contractor members, regardless of membership type, benefit from on-staff experts as well as products and services offered specifically to meet the needs of firms specializing in Building, Highway-Heavy or Utility construction.

Gross Construction Receipts (GCR) includes:

- All private and public construction work, whether negotiated or competitively bid, including work done by wholly owned subsidiaries who are not regular members.
- Percentage of participation in joint ventures. Work performed as a subcontractor.

Gross Construction Receipts (GCR) excludes:

- Work done on a facility owned by the member firm, parent or subsidiary.
- Work performed outside the Carolinas and reported to another AGC Chapter.
- Jobs subcontracted to another regular member.
